

LONG ISLAND'S VITAMIX LABORATORIES EARNS USDA ORGANIC CERTIFICATION

Commack, New York — Vitamix Laboratories, contract manufacturer of Dietary supplements and Nutraceuticals, announced today it has earned organic certification under the USDA National Organic Program (NOP) for its manufacturing facility.

“Through the USDA Organic Certification process, we have established organic production and handling systems to complement our current rigorous supplement-safety management systems,” said Michael Koschitz, President of Vitamix Laboratories. “By earning organic certification, we will be able to meet our customers’ needs for organic ingredients and faster development of new opportunities within the ever-growing organic market.”

Vitamix Laboratories has been providing exceptional service to its partnering brands for years and becoming USDA organic certified is another way to give their partnering brands an added advantage. Vitamix looks forward to continuing providing top notch service and high quality ingredients. Becoming USDA organic certified is just the beginning of consistently improving their service and capabilities.
